One Day Training Session

Course Objectives

This class will cover several discussions which includes relations, manners, and characteristics. The group will take part in group activities, take an assessment and determine their own ethical practices they carry out. What do we notice that goes on in the workplace that is not in line with ethics? What do we do about it? At times one is tempted to “bend” the rules to “get” ahead? Individually, the audience will complete worksheets that demonstrate where each of them stands when it comes to workplace ethics. Interactively, the audience will define and compare their views.
